Environmental Finance Program

Answering the “How to Pay” Question

Office of the Chief Financial Officer
Environmental Protection Agency (2731R)
1200 Pennsylvania Ave., NW.
Washington, DC 20460

A major environmental challenge of our time is paying for environmental facilities and services and creating incentives that promote environmental stewardship.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has developed the Environmental Finance Program to help meet this challenge.

The Environmental Finance Program provides:

g financial outreach services to smaller communities, state and federal environmental programs, and emerging environmental enterprises;

g advice and recommendations to EPA on finance issues, trends, and opportunities.

The Environmental Finance Program operates through four activities:

g The Environmental Financial Advisory Board (EFAB)

g The Environmental Finance Center (EFC) Network

g The Environmental Finance Information Network (EFIN)

g EPA In-House Services

What services do we provide?

g The Environmental Financial Advisory Board (EFAB)

EFAB provides advice to the EPA Administrator and Program Offices on “how to pay” for environmental protection. The Board is made up of financing experts from the public and private sectors. EFAB has produced a variety of environmental policy and technical reports available to the public.

g The Environmental Finance Center (EFC) Network

As a university-based program, the Environmental Finance Center (EFC) Network provides financial outreach services to the regulated community and small environmental businesses. The Network consists of seven EFCs that share information and expertise on finance issues and engage jointly in projects.
